Sunday November 1, 1993

Harold Weisberg
Maryland

Dear Harold

It occurred to me after I hung up today that I should have expressed myself clearly on what I felt about Livingstone's infamy, especially as it is directed against you.

What I would like to do this winter is write up a biographical sketch of you that covers the several episodes of your life that he has corrupted. I would have to set these forward in an outline, then after working with you write them up in the context of a biographical sketch.

One is needed anyway. And, I might as well make this a good one. I would need as I go along some specific dates and names and cases and so forth to make this nitty gritty good. It would have the frame work or thrust of a serious article, but in popular language.

I would not mention Livingstone by name.

Second, I would like to assemble from your friends letters, essays, and articles of estimates on you, your character, and your work. Include your friends of old, new friends, etc. These I would submit for a biography-like booklet to C & G or ?

Let me know about your thinking and I will begin assemble~~d~~ing the cover letter for the second to be sent to possible contributors, and the outline for the first, the article.

Regards

David

David R. Wrone